

RE: COVID-19 Response – Update #41 – June 30, 2021

For over a year, the Corix Group of Companies (the “Company”) has prioritized proactive communication with all external stakeholders and customers regarding our response to the COVID-19 pandemic. Our response efforts have been, and continue to be, guided by public health recommendations and science-based decision making to ensure the health and safety of our employees and the communities we serve while continuing to provide safe and reliable service. We are proud of our employees and their flexibility and commitment in executing our response safely and effectively.

As of July 6, the Corix Incident Command Team will be stood down, transitioning from centralized to localized leadership regarding our response to COVID-19. Local leadership will utilize updated enterprise-wide COVID-19 safety policies and procedures, guidance from our People and Culture and Health and Safety teams, and local conditions to make decisions on phased office re-openings and returning to normalized operations. The Company will continue to prioritize the health and safety of our employees and our customers as these decisions are made.

The Company appreciates your collaboration and guidance in responding effectively to the COVID-19 pandemic. As we move forward, we commit to maintaining clear and open communications with our external stakeholders and customers. We invite you to email us at communications@corix.com with any questions or concerns you may have.
